Giles Miller Studio believes in enriching the way we experience our surroundings.

The studio creates innovative surfaces, sculpture and architecture.

In each discipline, the studio brings new meaning to spaces by celebrating the relationship between materials and light.

"I believe in making things that will change the way we experience the spaces around us.

I work with a team of talented designers, artists and artisan makers to push the boundaries of innovation within the world of art, sculpture and architecture.

My fascination is in materials and the way they interact with light as well as their surroundings. The technically inquisitive approach we take to each project brings a sense of true originality as well as distinctive richness of character to each piece we produce, and indeed to the spaces they inhabit."

Giles Miller

The first consideration for any piece by Giles Miller Studio is always its environment – whether that is a natural landscape or the tone and direction of light in a public building.

The resulting work will bring a defining character to the surrounding space.

The characteristic Giles Miller Studio aesthetic comes from the fusion of technology with the handmade.

The resulting complexity of meticulously arranged components creates richness, tactility, depth and allure.

Surface

Giles Miller Studio creates space defining surfaces.

The manipulation of the relationship between light and material to create subtle yet complex aesthetics is the foundation of the studio's creative process. The control of texture using innovative design and fabrication techniques enables imagery, movement and character tailored to individual clients and contexts.

Architecture

Giles Miller Studio creates new architectural typologies.

Based on a foundation of surface and sculptural experimentation, the studio is looking to question how spaces are defined. The result is a new type of architecture that changes the way people experience the spaces that surround them.
